"Biographical Poem about Robert 'Bob' Sheldon, a Soc"

Robert

Handsome, super-tuff, hot-tempered, wealthy

Eighteen, black-haired, dark eyes, reckless grin

Who loves fights, drinking, and beating up the greasers for no reason

Who feels entitled, that the Socs are better than the greasers, and feels no remorse for his actions

Who wants to be told "no" more than anything in the world, needs real friends, and control over his reckless decisions

Who gives Johnny Cade the beating of his life, and gives no consideration to how he treats people

Who is viewed by his friends as a good guy who can be sweet and sensitive

Who fears nothing

Who lives on the west side of town with the spoiled, rich Soc kids
Sheldon

(Draw and color a symbol that you feel represents your character below your poem then explain how it relates to your character)

"An orange can symbolize Robert 'Bob' Sheldon. He can be considered rough on the outside, but sweet on the inside."
